Are You Relying On The Market's Good Grace
To Provide You With Positive Performance?

Or do you have a way to potentially profit regardless if the market is moving up, down or sideways? We do.

Our team has spent the last seven years developing, testing and using a proprietary algorithm that is based on a strategy our Chief Algorithm Development Officer has successfully used to trade the markets for more than twenty years. We systematically trade blue chip S&P 100 stocks but are able to be far more nimble than large institutions can. We are also able to profit when stocks fall by shorting them. And when we believe the market is not providing an edge, we revert to cash taking no risk at all.

We have been extremely pleased with our results leading us to launch the BrightView Adaptive Hedge Fund so we can also manage money for our friends and family. Since doing so, we are up 12 of 14 months (the S&P 500 is up only 6 of 14) and have outperformed the market by over 20%. Investment returns will never be a straight line, but our quantitative strategy has proven to be far more consistent than the market or even the average hedge fund.

We believe our trading edges will allow us to double capital at a pace much faster than the market can—many years faster. And then, we will work to try to double capital again and again.

Few people have access to hedge funds, algorithmic investing or even the ability to short. Fortunately for you, you do. We can work new capital, or money already invested in a brokerage account, IRA or 401(k). To ensure investor safeguards, we operate our Fund on an institutional platform similar to the largest hedge funds.

At best, the great majority of the gains from the bull market are over. At worst, and more likely, the market will devolve in to a full fledged bear market. Why not try to protect your capital and do better?

Through 20+ years of successful live trading, and with the benefits of cutting edge technology, our team has developed a better way forward. Give us a call to see how systematic statistical based investing can lead to far superior results. And realize the huge potential that even a relatively small investment has to dramatically improve your financial future.

Sincerely,

Michael Kerris
